

Business Protection

A Lasting Power of Attorney is not only for personal assets, it can also help protect business owners, should they become incapacitated by injury or illness.

Having a Business LPA allows you to appoint somebody that you trust, and who understands the business, to help make decisions about the business which are in your best interests. The LPA could even be used if a business owner is abroad or on holiday.

Choosing the right person(s) to appoint is key for continuing the smooth running of the business in the event that you cannot make decisions for yourself.

Whatever the situation, it is important to take professional legal advice to ensure your needs are met.
